POLITICS

(Editorial)

The manner in which the war has been conducted from its commencement to the present time, has been generally re-probated, as well by the friends as by the foes of the administration. Armies have been lost by the ignorance, treachery of cowardice of their officers, and the most favorable opportunities for military enterprise sufto pass unimproved. merely because the government has neglected to furnish its combatants with arms and provisions. An express from General Harrison reached Pittsburg, bringing intelligence of the imminent danger of Fort Meigs, and stating that he was unable to relieve it for the want of FLINTS, having at that time 2,000 muskets, NOT ONE OF WHICH WAS FURNISH-ED WITH A FLINT!

GHOSTS FOR DEFENSE!

The plaintiff in the suit claimed a quarter's rent of a house in Cherry Street, due the 1st instant. The defense was that the house was haunted by ghosts and therefore untenantable by man. The defendant proved that he hired the house, not knowing that it had the re-putation of being inhabited by supernatural beings; that soon after taking possession, a placed on a lighted candle, mantelpiece, went out twice without assignable cause. That a third attempt was followed by the witness being seized by the arm, by an invisible hand. and turned completely around! That dead men's bones were found in closets and elsewhere. Some witnesses deposed that while the house was unoccupied, they had several times observed a blue flame inside which gave no light to the windows. The jury returned a verdiet of ten dollars, being amount due plaintiff up to the the ghosts appeared .-(N. Y. Com. Advertiser.)

Business conditions reflect more clearly than a month ago the improvement then to der way, though it was thee, as tow, remewhat consciunt in the second by the usual midsummer duliness. The increased availability of credit and teh marked declines which have taken place in money rates in the last six months are among the surest evidences that the betterment is founded on improved fundamental conditions. The money markets have now bee definitely tested by the early a... heavy movement of wheat. By the time the crest of the wheat movement has passed, the cotton crop will be coming on the market. Review-ing the entire situation, and giving due weight to the many factors atfecting the market, business opera-tions at this time should be based on probable continuance of rates at levels not far from those now pre-vailing. This should not be regarded as undesirable, since a stabilization of rates lization of rates at these levels would be in line with the reestablishment of business activities on a sound and permanent basis.

Although there is plenty of money, he demand for its heavy and any judgment of the future course of money rates must take account the inter-relation between be between bank credit for current producing and merchandizing operations and the re-querements for funds for more or less permanent financing. While recognizing the factors for lower money rates, there are powerwhich tend to maintain ful forces them. The violent declines in com-modity and security prices have aureductions at point of shipment have tomatically tended to reduce bank deposits at the same time that loan re quirements have been falling. In other words, while the decline in the price level does to some extent release credit supplies it does not necessarily work uniformly in this rection.

A further influence for maintenance of the rate levels lies in the large sums tied up in carrying huge stocks of nonsalable raw materials in various parts of the world. Additional ous parts of the world. Additional money will also be required from time to time as new crops are pro-duced. Wool, hides and skins, sugaroffee, cotton and rubber represent the more serious crelit problems of this class.

Business Improvement Condition in July have all tended to confirm the belief that genuine business improvement is under way. Manufacturers in many lines are sometimes wont to express a sense of discouragement, however, cause forward orders are not as heavy as they were during the late priod of normal business activity. It s doubtful whether this isjustified Good business policy requires caution on the part of buyers. Failure to exercise it contributed to the difficulties from which the country is beginning to recover. Smaller order for early delivery if received in sufficient amount to maintain operations on a reasonable basis are at this time an indication of a healthy con-

Building

The fact that building operations have persistd in fair volume in the face of many adverse circumstances is a most encouraging factor in the general situation. Conditions at the opening of the current building season afforded little hope for an active year. Many materials have not come down proportionally with other prices, and in those lines in which not come down proportionally with other prices, and in those lines in which price reductions at point of shipment have been severe, freight rates have prevented builders from realizing any great reduction in material costs. Labor continues high and this together with the general uncertainty of the business outlook has had a depressing effect.

Nevertheless, operations for the first seven months, as measured by contracts awarded and permits is-sued indicate a restricted but a persitent building program, well main tained through July.

RICHMOND THEATRE

"To Please One Woman," the chief film attraction at the Richmond The-atre today and during the first part of the week, will not only please all the women, but the men as well. is singularly appealing story of small town life and the havor small town life and the havoc wrought by the influence of a selfish woman of the "vampire" type that is unfolded in Lois Weber's latest production. Miss Weber possesses the happy faculty of portraying with dramatic skill some of the phases of our social life that other screen producers have thus far overlooked. Claire Windsor, Mona Lisa, and Ed ward Burns enact the principal roles Charlie Chaplin will be shown as an extra attraction in a comedy just shown in Washington.
